

2015 INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES WITH CAB | COMMUNITY ACCESS BIKESHARE

Community Access Bikeshare (CAB)

CAB is a community tools project of The Working Centre. Currently operating 9 stations in Kitchener and Waterloo, CAB provides affordable access to bicycles while also focusing on the promotion of cycling culture and community building in Waterloo region.

Internships at CAB

Researching new technology, building and fixing bicycles, providing relationship based support to members, promoting cycling in the community, marketing, social and traditional media relations – these are just a few of the aspects of CAB interns have contributed to. For our 2015 season CAB is seeking community minded cycling enthusiasts (or those who want to become ones) to help us expand our station locations, promote cycling culture, and continue making bicycles accessible region wide. Ideally your interests involve any one or combination of; environmentalism, community building, social work, cycling, mechanical skills, social marketing, bike puns, research, design, and volunteer development.

The Working Centre (TWC)

TWC is a non-profit, community-based, volunteer inspired organization that seeks to give individuals and groups access to tools and opportunities to become involved in community building project. Mainly embedded in downtown Kitchener, TWC runs an extensive range of projects, from supportive housing to employment counselling, to our vegetarian café, thrift stores and small business mentorship programs plus many more. TWC has promoted cycling through its project Recycle Cycles since 1998 and is the host organization of Community Access Bikeshare (CAB).
